

FAQ: How do I bypass the volume pot?. . Before you do it, turn the pot all the way up and make sure your external volume control is not allowing too much level through the monotor because bypassing through the switch will be the same level as with the volume all the way up. Only high end units like the Crane song Avocet allow you to internally set the max level out. If after this you still decide to do it, here is a picture. The switches are set back push switches, the left one is a little harder to switch than the right one. I use a wooden cue tip with the cotton cut off. Hope that helps and I don't recommend it unless you have a way to make sure you aren't going to put way too much level on your phones and your ears!
